Dear Sirs,

November 4, 1998

I received your tentative draft recommending splitting the Ninth circuit to expedite effective disposition of caseload in the federal appeals courts "...consistent with fundamental concepts of fairness and due process." Thank Heavens you guys are starting to wake up and smell the coffee. Splitting the corrupt Ninth circuit is a step in the right direction, but it is still like putting a little Henry's Tar and duct tape on a leaky dam without fixing the crack!!

I would like to testify, and bring in other citizens of my group who have been deprived of access to California's district courts, which has effectively deprived them of due process/appeals to federal courts. There is no First Amendment right to petition for redress of grievances in the state of California.

Sincerely,

Janet I. Fischer
